Dear Randell Woodruff,

On behalf of the North Carolina Association of Assessing Officers, the Publicity and Publications Committee wishes to congratulate the Beaufort County Tax Office. It recently was selected for the Joseph E. Hunt Distinguished Jurisdiction Award – Small Jurisdiction at the North Carolina Association of Assessing Officers' annual Fall Conference. This award signifies that the Beaufort County Tax Office is working hard to promote professionalism, education and dedication to the administration of local property taxation. The North Carolina Association of Assessing Officers' 2014 President, Ms. Greta Skeen, and members of the Executive Board hereby congratulate the Beaufort County Tax Office on this accomplishment and contributions to the property tax profession.

The Joseph E. Hunt Distinguished Jurisdiction Award is designed to recognize three jurisdictions annually: a small, medium and large jurisdiction. It is presented in recognition of outstanding achievement in tax administration and public service. Selected jurisdictions often have found innovative ways to solve problems, educate the public and/or increase efficiency and effectiveness in tax administration. For more details on Beaufort County's award, please contact the tax office.

Sincerely,

NCAAO Publicity & Publications Committee
